Please be aware that the data on this report is NOT accurate and will be misinterpreted and misrepresented by this organization, as they have already done with the data previously received.

If you delete a voter for failure to respond to the non-citizen letter and the voter subsequently submits a voter registration application, you can't register the voter if you match it against the prohibited record because there is no way of adding an end date or otherwise invalidating the non-citizen prohibited record. The only way to register the voter is to ignore the match. This means you will have two records for that voter: the cancellation with the prohibited notice, which is what prints on this report, and a valid active or possibly inactive record.

This group has and will interpret the fact that there may be voting credit on the cancelled record as "illegal aliens" registering and voting, despite the voter having subsequently affirmed his citizenship. (Although how they know these non-citizens are illegals is another story.)

I am working through my report and I've found so far for every cancelled record that has voter credit, there is a more recent active or inactive voter record available. I am going to delete or otherwise notate these names from my report, either by deleting the rows from the Excel version or marking them on the report. I plan to discuss with my County Attorney first (I have not yet received the latest letter).
